"Do you have your costume for the Harvestfest competition?" Meg asked.

"I have one—Magnifico, __16__ favourite hero," said Jordan, sitting in his wheelchair. "But it's boring."

Meg shrugged. "You love Magnifico. What's the matter?"

"Danny and Alex are going as Magnifico too," Jordan shook his head. "It's __17__ for me to win."

Meg said, "Maybe you should go as __18__ different."

"The competition is on Friday night. It's too late to change costumes," Jordan sighed.

Back at home, Jordan was quiet, thinking about Meg's words __19__. When he pulled into Mum's home office, he saw papers and books everywhere. "What are all these?" he asked.

"I'm cleaning out my old desk. The new one is arriving tomorrow," she smiled at Jordan. "What's on your mind?"

Jordan explained the costume situation, "I really want to be the __20__."

"We have lots of old clothes and costumes. Why not take a look?" Mum __21__.

"OK."

Jordan found giant sunglasses and a long black wig, __22__ nothing was useful.

The next day, Meg found him, "Any new idea?"

"I __23__ some old clothes," He shrugged. "Nothing."

"Jordan, you have to think outside the box," said Meg. "See what you have __24__ your house. There's hidden potential in everyday items. My candy-bar costume is made from recycled aluminum foil."

When Jordan got home, he found Mum putting her new desk together. On top of the desk was a giant box. Suddenly, he __25__ what Meg said—think outside the box.

"What do you think?" Mum asked, pointing to her desk. Jordan's eyes fell on the __26__. He grinned. "It's perfect!"

On Friday night, Jordan was fully prepared for the competition. When Danny and Alex saw Jordan, they __27__ believe his costume.

"The Magnifico Mobile?" Danny's eyes lit up. "The wheels of your wheelchair are perfect for its back wheels." He wondered __28__ Jordan made it.

Jordan beamed. "Thanks! I got the idea from a box."

It was time to announce the __29__. "The winner is ... Jordan Eastman!" Everyone clapped.

"See?" Meg said. "You just needed to be __30__!"

"Yeah, think outside the box!" Jordan smiled.

三、阅读理解(共 15 小题;每小题 2 分,计 30 分)

阅读下列内容,从每小题所给的 A、B、C、D 四个选项中选出一个最佳答案。

A

What can trees tell us about climate(气候) change?

Quite a lot!

Trees can keep a record of Earth's climate for a very long time. In fact, trees can live for hundreds—and sometimes even thousands—of years!

If you see a stump(树桩), you may find that the top of the stump has many rings. These rings can tell us how old the tree is, and what the weather was like during each year of the tree's life.

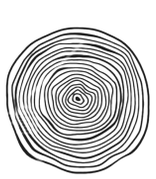

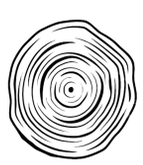

In most places, daily weather records have only been kept for the past 100 to 150 years. So, scientists can use trees to learn about the climate hundreds to thousands of years ago.

(　　)31. How old is the tree in the picture?

A. About 14 years old.　　B. About 17 years old.

C. About 19 years old.　　D. About 22 years old.

(　　)32. Which tree lives in a warmer and wetter place?

A.  　B.  　C.  　D.

(　　)33. In which part of a newspaper can we read this passage?

A. Travel.　　B. Science.　　C. Art.　　D. Culture.

B

One night, four students stayed up late partying, even though they knew they would have a test the next day. The next morning, they came up with an idea to get out of having to take their test.

Each student put some dirt(土) on their faces and hands, and then they went to the teacher's office. They told the teacher that they had helped an old woman with her car on the way to school, and they spent the whole morning pushing her car back.

The teacher listened, and to the students' surprise, he said that they could do the test in three days' time.

On the day of the test, the students went to their teacher's office. The teacher put four students in four different rooms to take the test. The students didn't mind. They were just so happy because they had three extra days to study and prepare for the test.

In fact, to get a better grade, they did go over the lessons carefully. However, as they read the paper, the students found there were only two questions on the paper:

|---|
| 1) Your Name: _____ |
| 2) Which tire was flat? _____ |
| A. Front Right.　B. Front Left.　C. Back Right.　D. Back Left. |

Now it's not hard to imagine how ashamed(羞愧的) they all felt.

(　　)34. What really happened to the students?

A. They held a party the night before the test.

B. They hurried to take the test on time.

C. They fell over on their way to school.

D. They pushed their car to school.

(　　)35. Why did the four students put some dirt on their faces?

A. To make fun of their teacher.

B. To show the teacher their words were true.

C. To make the woman accept(接受) their help.

D. To tell the teacher about the party experience.

(　　)36. How did the students' feelings change in the story?

A. Sorry—Surprised—Happy—Worried.　　B. Sorry—Surprised—Worried—Happy.

C. Worried—Surprised—Happy—Sorry.　　D. Worried—Happy—Surprised—Sorry.

(　　)37. What is the best title for the passage?

A. A Good Party　　B. A Special Test

C. A Great Idea　　D. An Unforgettable Night

C

Why is history important? Well, a famous writer from the 20th and 21st centuries named Michael Crichton once said, "If you don't know history, you don't know anything. You are like a leaf that doesn't know it is part of a tree." But not everyone agrees. Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel, from the 19th century, said, "The only thing we learn from history is that we learn nothing."

History tells us about where we come from, what we did right, and where we messed up. It gives us warnings(警示) for the future and helps us move forward with knowledge(知识). Even if we repeat mistakes, at least we can do it with our eyes open.

As we move into the future together, it's important to know not only our own history but also the history of our neighbours around the world. What can be a better way to understand a country than through the eyes of its people?

As editors and writers, we asked friends from different countries to recommend the best books about their nation's history. We also looked into our own country's past, remembering stories that meant something to us when we were growing up. This will give us different views on world history.

You can take a quick trip through the history of England, from its earliest people to the 21st century. Learn about the unstable history of the USA and Canada. Then, fly across the globe to hear stories from Kenya, South Africa, India, Australia, and the Philippines.

The histories you'll read about will help you explore(探索) different parts of the world and different times in history. You'll hear the stories of different nations told by the people who know them best.

( )38. Who agrees that history is unimportant, Crichton or Hegel?

A. Hegel. B. Crichton. C. Both. D. Neither.(都不)

( )39. What idea does Paragraph 2 show?

A. History tells little about where humans first came from.

B. Our mistakes can't be written about in history books.

C. We won't make mistakes after learning from history.

D. History helps us to move forward with a clear mind.

( )40. What did the editors and writers ask some foreign friends to do?

A. Collect ideas from different cultures.

B. Explore historical places of interest.

C. Recommend some history books.

D. Study foreigners' views on China.

( )41. What will the next pages be about?

A. English history.

B. Historical trips around the world.

C. The development of human beings.

D. Histories of some countries.

D

Microplastics(微塑料) are very small. But they bring big problems. A new study said that by 2040, microplastic pollution(污染) could be twice as bad as it is now. Scientists learned this by looking at 20 years of studies on microplastics.

Microplastics are very small pieces of plastic. They come from many places. For example, About 60 per cent of material made into clothing is plastic. Every time they are washed, they shed (掉落) microplastics. When water bottles and other big plastic items are left outside, they break down slowly into microplastics.

According to National Geographic, microplastics are usually less than five millimetres(毫米) in size. This small size lets them go everywhere, even in water and air. They don't break down(分解) easily and can stay in the environment for hundreds of years.

This can be bad for our health. In August, The Conversation reported that scientists found microplastics in people's brains for the first time. They may hurt brain cells(脑细胞) and change how the brain works.

Wild animals are also at risk from microplastic pollution. Each year, up to three million tons of microplastics end up in the sea. Since they are too small to be seen, fish may eat them by mistake and become very sick.

To deal with the problem, scientists think the best way right now is to make and use less plastic.

( )42. What do we know about microplastics?

A. They showed up 20 years ago.

B. They are causing more pollution.

C. They mainly come from making clothes.

D. They are usually about 10 millimetres.

( )43. Why are microplastics a problem for the environment?

A. Because they take a long time to break down.

B. Because they mainly end up in water.

C. Because they are too small to be reused.

D. Because they can move fast in the air.

( )44. What are Paragraphs 4—5 mainly about?

A. Microplastic pollution is hard to deal with.

B. Microplastics can cause different kinds of pollution.

C. Microplastics can hurt certain kinds of fish.

D. Microplastics can bring health problems to humans and animals.

(　　)45. What do scientists think is the best way to deal with microplastic pollution?

A. Taking plastic out of the sea.

B. Making and using less plastic.

C. Governments making laws about it.

D. Helping microplastics break down.

The next two days it rained and it was very windy, so Mary couldn't go outside. Then, on the third morning when she opened her eyes and looked out of the window, she had a big surprise. She called to Martha, "Martha! Come and look at the moor!"

There was a blue sky with no wind or rain.

"Yes," said Martha with a smile. "The spring's coming."

After breakfast, Martha went to visit her mother for the day. Mary felt lonely in the house without her, so she went outside into the bright sunshine. She ran round and round the fountain ten times, and soon she started to feel better. Ben Weatherstaff was in the vegetable garden. He didn't look cross that day so she went to speak to him.

"The spring's coming," he said to her. "Can you see those green points in the earth?"

Mary looked. "What are they?" she asked.

"They're spring flowers—crocuses, snowdrops and daffodils." Then the robin appeared and sat on the ground near them.

"Is spring coming in the secret garden too?" Mary asked Ben. "Or are all the flowers dead?"

"Ask the robin," said Ben Weatherstaff. "He's the only one who knows." And he went back to work.

The robin was hopping around on the ground. Mary was watching him when she saw something in the earth. She picked it up. It was an old key.

"The key to the secret garden!" she whispered excitedly.

Mary looked at the key for a long time. Then she put it in her pocket and walked back to her room.

56. How was the weather on the third morning?

57. Why did Mary go to speak to Ben Weatherstaff?

58. What makes Ben Weatherstaff think the spring is coming?

59. Who knows if spring is coming in the secret garden?

60. What may Mary use the old key for?
