Li Shizhen, a well-known medical scientist of the Ming Dynasty, is famous as a great master of medicine in China. He put his heart and soul into medicine, only to save the dying and cure the sick.

Li was born in 1518 in Hubei. Both his grandfather and father were doctors. Li's grandfather was a country doctor who travelled from place to place with a bag of herbs(药草). Such doctors were called Lingyi(bell doctors), because they could tell others their arrival by ringing a bell. Li's father was also a famous doctor in their local area.

From childhood, Li went to the mountains with his father to pick herbs, getting wide knowledge about animals, plants and medicine. Although Li's father hoped his son could get a government job, Li failed the exam three times. He then turned his attention to medicine.

At the age of 33, Li became famous for curing Prince Zhu Houkun's son. A few years later, he was invited to work at the Imperial Medical Institute(太医院) in Beijing. During that time, he read many ancient medical texts, and noticed a mess in the naming and categorization(分类) of herbs. To deal with it, he decided to leave his job and spend all his life writing a book about herbs. After that, Li travelled to many places and got much first-hand information. He also read hundreds of medical books and collected different kinds of herbs. After 27 years of efforts, his first draft(初稿) of Ben Cao Gang Mu was finished in 1578. The book is highly detailed and well-organized and is considered one of the greatest scientific achievements of the Ming Dynasty.

(　　)31. Which of the following is TRUE according to Paragraph 2?

A. Li's father followed in his father's footsteps.

B. Li's grandfather sold herbs by ringing a bell.

C. Li's father was not as famous as his grandfather.

D. Li's family moved to Hubei when Li was very young.

(　　)32. How did Li learn medicine as a child?

A. Through receiving education at school.

B. By learning it from his grandfather.

C. Through personal practice.

D. By reading many ancient books.

(　　)33. What does the underlined word "it" in Paragraph 4 refer to?

A. A child's illness.

B. Writing his new book.

C. His work in Beijing.

D. Wrong information about herbs.

(　　)34. Why did Li go to many places?

A. To save more patients.

B. To prepare for his book.

C. To tell others about his medical ideas.

D. To visit some famous medical scientists.

(　　)35. Which word can best describe Li Shizhen?

A. Polite.　　B. Popular.　　C. Hard-working.　　D. Generous.

①When you think of celebrating the Mid-Autumn Festival, what comes to mind? Eating mooncakes? Enjoying the moon? Do you want to know more about what Chinese people do these days during this festival? Then read on.

②In the past, families stayed at home during the Mid-Autumn Festival holiday to enjoy a dinner together and enjoy the moon. With the quick development of our country, people's life has improved. Nowadays, many people like to travel during holidays. Last year, Beijing, Chongqing and Xi'an were the top three places to go during the Mid-Autumn Festival holiday.

③In China, family reunions are important. In the past, people would visit their relatives and friends during the Mid-Autumn Festival, and children would receive red packets from their elders in person. Nowadays, sending digital(数字的) red packets to families and friends has become more popular.

④For added fun, people enjoy sending grabbing(抢夺的) red packets in WeChat chat groups. There are two main types: "regular red packets" where people can set the same amount(量) of money, and "the red packet lucky draw" where the amount received depends on luck.

⑤Food plays an important part in Chinese culture. As the saying goes, "　▲　" And Chinese people always have a natural creativity for food. As people continue to come up with new ideas, some unusual mooncake tastes keep appearing, such as chocolate mooncakes with beef filling or mooncakes with pork and vegetables inside. Of course, you can also create your own style of mooncakes to meet your tastes.

(　　)36. What is the purpose of the first paragraph?

A. To create a happy environment.

B. To draw a picture of the future.

C. To introduce the topic of the passage.

D. To give some background information.

(　　)37. Why do many people now like to travel during holidays?

A. Because staying at home is boring.

B. Because their life becomes better.

C. Because travelling helps them to make more friends.

D. Because they don't care about the traditional festivals.

(　　)38. What is the biggest difference in "the red packet lucky draw"?

A. It is most popular among children.

B. People receive them at different times.

C. How much money people get is different.

D. People can decide the amount of money in each one.

(　　)39. Which of the following can be put in "　▲　"?

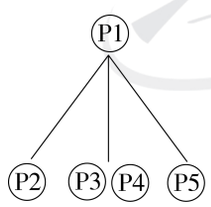

A. One should eat to live, not live to eat.

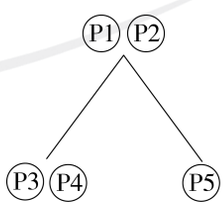

B. Good food ends with good talk.

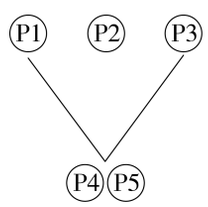

C. Make sure you eat up everything.

Dinosaur Fossil

Dinosaurs disappeared(消失) 65 million years ago, so we don't really know what they sounded like. Of course, there are many movies with dinosaurs making all kinds of sounds. However, these sounds are just guesses that movie directors(导演) make about how dinosaurs sounded.

A new finding has given scientists a better idea of the sounds made by dinosaurs. The scientists examined a rare fossil. It was from an ankylosaur(甲龙)—a kind of frightening dinosaur. The fossil is around 78 million years old. It includes the ankylosaur's voice box(喉). It is the world's oldest fossil of a voice box. The scientists believe the shape of the voice box means it probably made bird-like sounds.

The research was led by Professor Junki Yoshida, a dinosaur researcher at Fukushima

Museum in Japan. Dr Yoshida did many tests on the shape of the fossilized voice box. He compared (比较) it with the voice boxes of many birds, crocodiles, lizards and turtles. They now have a good idea of what the muscles (肌肉) around the ankylosaur's voice box looked like. The muscles controlled the windpipe(气管) and sounds of the voice box.

Yoshida's research may mean that movies like Jurassic Park(《侏罗纪公园》) got it wrong. Millions of years ago, the Tyrannosaurus rex(霸王龙) might make more of a tweeting sound, like a bird. Hollywood may have to change its scary growls(咆哮) in future dinosaur movies to a tweet-tweet sound.

( )41. What's the main idea of the first paragraph?

A. Dinosaurs disappeared a long time ago.

B. Nobody will know how dinosaurs died out.

C. We might get wrong about the sounds of dinosaurs.

D. Dinosaurs movies play a joke on us.

( )42. The fossil of the voice box is around _____.

A. 78,000,000 years old　　B. 780,000,000 years old

C. 7,800,000 years old　　D. 780,000 years old

( )43. What's NOT true about the ankylosaur's voice box?

A. It is the oldest fossil of a voice box in the world.

B. The scientist compared it with many other voice boxes.

C. Muscles around the voice box controlled the sounds.

D. The shape of the voice box shows that it was a bird.

( )44. What can we infer(推断) from the passage?

A. Hollywood should say sorry for their mistakes.

B. Directors may no longer be able to film movies about dinosaurs.

C. We may hear dinosaurs with a tweeting sound in future movies.

D. People may see the voice box in the future.

( )45. What's the best title for the passage?

A. The Finding of Dinosaur Groups

B. A New Finding of a Dinosaur's Voice Box

C. A New Kind of Dinosaur: Ankylosaur

D. A Great Scientist: Professor Junki Yoshida

Steps to deal with regrets(懊悔)

Here are three steps you can take the next time you find yourself thinking about your past mistakes.

People often say their regrets trouble them. This suggests that the regret is like a ghost: not clear but always scary. Bring your ghost out of your mind by making a list of your regrets. Write down why they still trouble you. Be honest. For example, note not only that you hurt a friend's feelings through your own mistake, but also that this almost certainly didn't destroy the person's life.

After you make a mistake, life moves on. But sometimes you can't stop kicking yourself. Perhaps you dropped out of school many years ago and are always thinking today how much money you would be making if you had finished school. In other words, you have chosen a life sentence for a poor decision you made in the past. However, you may make more today if you work hard. Change your idea with a simple saying, "I will not waste another minute of my life thinking of a decision that cannot be changed."

The regret is like a school run by human nature. If you never experienced regrets, you would keep repeating the same behaviours that led you to miss chances. Your regret can teach you to become smarter and more successful—if you let it. In your list of regrets, also write down how you want to change your behaviour. Next, list all the ways that you can use in your own skills and improvement right now—and get started.

Obsessing(念念不忘) about regrets does harm to you. You aren't able to live without regrets. Life is a journey full of happiness and sadness. To live it well and fully means learning from every bit of it, including the mistakes, and moving forward.

Steps to deal with regrets
Introduction	Here are three steps for you when you __56__ about your past mistakes.
Three steps	Kill the ghost	People are often troubled by regrets. Make a list of your regrets to __57__ your ghost out of your mind. Write down why each regret still __58__ you.
	Forgive(原谅) yourself	Sometimes, you __59__ kicking yourself after making a mistake. You might feel sorry for dropping out of school many years ago. Don't waste __60__ thinking of a decision that cannot be changed.
	Get started	You can become smarter and more successful by __61__ from regrets. You should list all the __62__ that you can use to change your behaviour. After you finish making a list, start to improve yourself.
Conclusion	Obsessing about regrets is __63__ for you. Living without regrets is __64__. In fact, you might make __65__ before you move forward.

56. _____ 57. _____ 58. _____ 59. _____ 60. _____

61. _____ 62. _____ 63. _____ 64. _____ 65. _____

六、综合填空

阅读下面的短文,在空白处填入适当的单词或括号内单词的正确形式。有提示词的空格不限一词,无提示词的空格限填一词。(共 10 小题;每小题 1.5 分,满分 15 分)

Yesterday I took my mum out for lunch at the local club. Maybe it was the fifth time for me to take her out. When we arrived, __66__ man in a wheelchair was waving at her and saying hello—I guessed because she is also in a wheelchair.

At the table next __67__ us, a family was having lunch. The little boy (about eight years old) was smiling away and when I caught his eyes, his beautiful smile got even __68__ (bright). I pointed him out to Mum and he smiled at her and even __69__ (give) her a little wave during the meal. That really made __70__ (she) happy, from her face I could tell. I thanked his parents for their __71__ (kind).

I took Mum to the supermarket for a browse(随便看看). There was a young family with some children __72__ (choose) toys there. The father saw my mum in her wheelchair and attached(固定) the shopping cart. He looked down with a big smile and said __73__ (warm), "Hello, ma'am."

How surprised I was __74__ (meet) so many friendly and good people in half a day. Mum used to be at home for most of her time. __75__, she now opens her mind to people around her. She is looking forward to meeting more nice people. So, thank you and never think a small friendly gesture may be wasted or go unnoticed.

66. _____ 67. _____ 68. _____ 69. _____ 70. _____

71. _____ 72. _____ 73. _____ 74. _____ 75. _____
